

Cotton: World Markets and Trade

Central Asia: Consumption Booms While Exports Falter

Note: Central Asia countries include (from highest to lowest consumption) Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan, Tajikistan, Kazakhstan, Azerbaijan, Kyrgyzstan

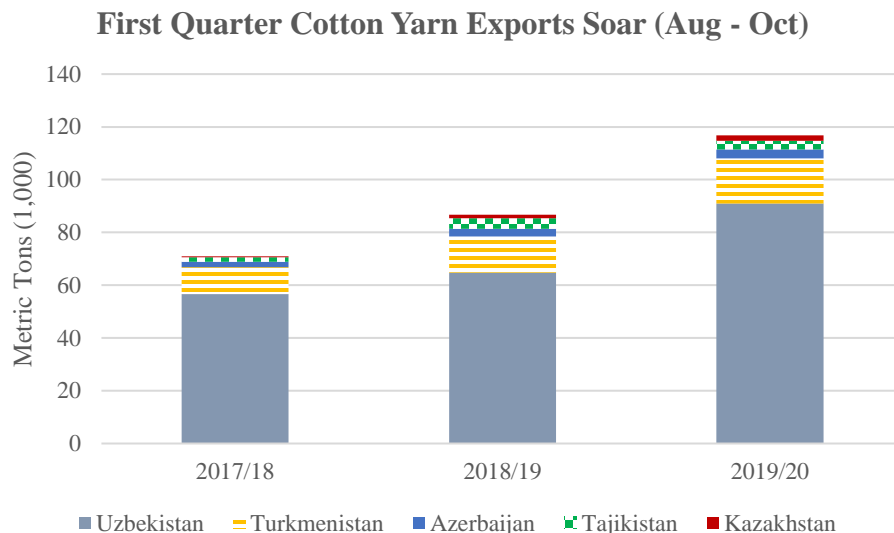

Central Asia cotton consumption is expanding significantly as countries implement political measures to curb exports and to support value-added use. Share of world exports has dropped per annum since 2015/16 as 2019/20 shipments are projected to be less than half of the region’s exports just 4 years earlier. With stable production, major producing countries such as Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan, and Tajikistan have sought to secure greater domestic supplies for inward processing and downstream exports (e.g. cotton yarn, fabric, and garments).

Uzbekistan banned exports starting this month, a similar measure to Turkmenistan banning exports in 2018/19 (for a brief period); Tajikistan had also discussed following the same measure. Uzbekistan comprises the bulk of production and use, with the 2019/20 forecast accounting for more than three-fourths of the region’s total consumption. Government funding and support for cotton “clusters” has encouraged foreign and domestic companies to implement a more fully integrated supply chain.¹ These companies are expected to improve efficiency of lint production via drip irrigation and machine harvesters (versus handpicked), expand spinning mills' operating capacity, and further develop fabric and garment manufacturing as they shift to exports of value-added cotton products versus unprocessed lint. Expanded capacity is evident with record first quarter (Aug - Oct) cotton yarn exports for the respective period.

Note: August – October global reported cotton yarn imports from respective Central Asia countries; 2019/20 represents August 2019 – October 2019 reported imports Greater government and foreign investment has also been evident in Tajikistan, as the government proposed to establish a full cycle of processing cotton by 2025. The country has recently expanded spinning capacity with additional government and Chinese investment. Turkmenistan, the region's second-largest producer, temporarily embargoed exports in 2018/19 (record low volume) to ensure adequate supplies for domestic consumers.

Challenges in regard to expanding exports of processed products include consistent and sufficient domestic crops, affordable electricity, reliable and timely transportation for exports, and mill access to financing. Nonetheless, Central Asia's 2019/20 cotton consumption is forecast at a record, in contrast to lower consumption expected in China and anemic growth in Vietnam. Future growth in Central Asia is expected due to significant political objectives in the region.

Overview

For 2019/20, the January forecast shows less production and beginning stocks. Production is lowered again for India, Pakistan, Australia, and Turkey. Consumption is largely unchanged with higher consumption in Uzbekistan offsetting lower use in Bangladesh and Vietnam. Global trade is down with lower imports in China, Vietnam, and Bangladesh coupled with lower exports for Australia, India, and Uzbekistan. The U.S. forecast is mostly unchanged from last month, with slightly lower production and ending stocks, and the U.S. season-average farm price is raised 2 cents to 63 cents per pound.

Prices

The A-index and the U.S. spot prices continued to rally, supported in part by optimistic market sentiment about the U.S.-China trade situation.
